CAPITAL APPEAL

LIVING THE CALL Sharing God's Gifts

Dear Friends,

This weekend is the second information weekend as we kick off our Living the Call, Sharing God's Gifts capital appeal. Last weekend we began reflecting on the way God is working in our lives and our parish already, so that we may be provided the opportunity to more deeply invest in this good work. Packets were provided containing detailed information describing precisely what you have indicated as important for this appeal. This weekend, we continue our reflection with a video presentation during Masses, and packets remain available for those that were not able to take one.

We look forward to several events coming up this and next month, geared to help us learn more about some of the projects and to continue to pray for guidance during this process.

Sincerely Yours in Christ,
Fr. Phillip Bogacki, Pastor

Life is busy.

When asked to write a few words for our small group bulletin, I wasn't sure what to write about. I believe it is universally accepted that we are all busy. I don't think we meet too many people that when asked "how's life?" they respond with "I'm just not very busy and have loads of free time." I bring this up for a reason, and an understanding that a busy life is EXACTLY why I love being involved with small groups.

I have been involved with Christ King for about 20 years, and have been facilitating small groups for the past several years. I am married to Brian and together we are raising 2 daughters, Emily (20) and Lauren (18). I am a high school counselor and work full time during the school year, but enjoy a less-busy schedule in the summer months. My parents live nearby as well as both of my brothers and their families. Brian's dad and siblings all live in Madison, and we travel back and forth frequently for family visits. When visiting Madison, we enjoy attending mass with his family at St. Dennis Parish.

So . . . we keep busy.

When Father John Burns asked me to facilitate small groups, I thought I didn't have time and I also thought I didn't know enough to lead others in their faith journey. Through prayer and reflection, I agreed to give it a try. I am so glad that I did.

Here is what I have learned about small groups: as long as you come in with an open mind and heart, and a willingness to want to grow closer in your relationship with Jesus, YOU WILL! Quite honestly my role as a group leader is to provide a time and place and a discussion outline . . . ok and an occasional bottle of wine and other snacks and beverages. I sincerely believe the Holy Spirit leads our discussions, guides our souls, and enriches our meetings. Another thing I have learned is that our parish is filled with AMAZING women. Sorry guys, I know many of you and think you are pretty spectacular too, but I only facilitate women's groups ;-). There are so many wonderful women who I have had the privilege of growing with over the years, and each new year seems to bring more fabulous people who I continue to learn with and from.

This past spring our group focused on the upcoming weekly readings. We all agreed that this topic enhanced our understanding of the mass, and even helped us get a little excited to see what else we could learn! As my group members know, I am not a Catholic expert, but I sure am willing to research and learn and discuss. It is a recipe that seems to work, but of course there is a much greater hand guiding my work and for that I am forever grateful!

My faith journey has been forever changed and enriched because of my participation in small groups. I can't wait for my group to start again in the fall, and I can't wait to put our needs in the hands of God and see where He leads us.

So yes, life is busy. But life is also much better when we fill our (busy) time with valuable experiences and people. Small groups provides exactly that.

Now's the time to join one (or more!) of our small groups or ... start one of your own! Whether you are new to small groups or have been participating for awhile, they will provide a space for you to grow.

We want to meet you wherever you are in your faith journey. Let's share together, pray together, learn together, grow together - be inspired - together, just as Jesus did and still asks us to do!

Small groups can be joined at anytime and you can be a part of more than one. Find us on the website under Adult & Family Formation for detailed information on current facilitators, testimonials, how to sign up and get involved!
